Event Description

A lecture on "Innovation for better India", i.e., Rashtra Nirman Ki Nayi Sonch was organized under the National Lecture Series at Shipra Hall, Mangalayatan University, Aligarh. The event was started by the inaugural ceremony in which the guest speaker Dr. Timothy, Prof. P. S. Sivach (Hon'ble Vice Chacellor) was welcomed by the Registrar of Mangalayatan University, Aligarh. The welcome speech was given by Dr. Abhay Kumar (Head-Institute of Business Management, Mangalayatan University). The whole programme was under the coordination of Mr. Akash Jain (Marketing Director, Mangalayatan University). The guest speaker Dr. Timothy A. Gonsalves is a Director of the Indian Institute of Technology, Mandi, Himachal Pradesh. The purpose of the National Lecture Series was to promote the importance of new ideas among the public and to encourage students to participate in national development through innovation and also shared some experiences with students in the field of information and technology.

Benefits:

1. The national lecture series on “Innovation for better India” imparted knowledge on the new ideas and innovation being done in India among students.
2. The importance of new ideas in a nation-building process had been comprehended in the national lecture series.
3. The national lecture series on “Innovation for better India” encouraged students to participate in national development by improving their new ideas.
4. Experiences in the field of science and information technology were also shared by the speakers.

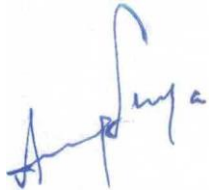

Press coverage of the lecture in Dainik Jagran newspaper

Dr. Trimorthy highlighted the importance of innovation for making our country advanced in technology. As India heads into an uncertain future where the global economy is still reeling from innovation holds the key to transition any developing economy toward the developed category. Also he told that the current edition of the index is strengthened by its framework when compared with the previous iteration, with the introduction of new indicators across several pillars and also with the modification of the methodology for certain indicators to provide more accurate outcomes. He said to strengthen the core of the index while successfully highlighting the results observed; the following can be done in the successive editions.

In the last, Head-Institute of Business Management thanked all participants for their valuable support and cooperation.

Category of the event: "Awareness of Trends in Technology"

Date: August 13, 2016

Organizer: Department of Biotechnology and Life Sciences, Institute of Biomedical Education & Research

Number of participants: 76

Resource persons: Dr. Gaurav Mudgal

Event Description

On August 13, 2016, a lecture on "Bioremediation techniques" was organized by Institute of Biomedical Education & Research. Faculty and students from all department of University participated in this workshop. Purpose of this workshop was to bring academicians and students on a single platform to get knowledge about Remediation of polluted sites using microbial process (bioremediation) that has proven effective and reliable due to its eco-friendly features. Bioremediation can either be carried out ex situ or in situ, depending on several factors, which include but not limited to cost, site characteristics, type and concentration of pollutants.

Dr. Gaurav Mudgal told about ex situ bioremediation techniques. He told that these techniques involve excavating pollutants from polluted sites and subsequently transporting them to another site for treatment. Ex situ bioremediation techniques are usually considered based on: the cost of treatment, depth of pollution, type of pollutant, degree of pollution, geographical location and geology of the polluted site. Performance criteria, which also determine the choice of ex situ bioremediation techniques,

He told explained the In situ bioremediation techniques. He told that these techniques involve treating polluted substances at the site of pollution. It does not require any excavation; therefore, it is accompanied by little or no disturbance to soil structure. Ideally, these techniques ought to be less expensive compared to ex situ bioremediation techniques, due to no extra cost required for excavation processes; nonetheless, cost of design and on-site installation of some sophisticated equipment to improve microbial activities during bioremediation is of major concern. Some in situ bioremediation techniques might be enhanced (bioventing, biosparging and phytoremediation), while others might proceed without any form of enhancement (intrinsic bioremediation or natural attenuation). In situ bioremediation techniques have been successfully used to treat chlorinated solvents, dyes, heavy metals, and hydrocarbons polluted sites.

He further concluded that the foremost step to a successful bioremediation is site characterization, which helps establish the most suitable and feasible bioremediation technique (ex situ or in situ). Ex situ bioremediation techniques tend to be more expensive due to additional costs attributed to excavation and transportation. Nonetheless, they can be used to treat wide range of pollutants in a controlled manner. In contrast, in situ techniques have no additional cost attributed to excavation; however, cost of on-site installation of equipment, coupled with inability to effectively visualize and control the subsurface of polluted site may render some in situ bioremediation techniques inefficient. Consequently, cost of remediation apparently is not the major factor that should determine the bioremediation technique to be applied to any polluted site.

In the last of the session, coordinator Mr. Mohit Kamthania thanked all participants for their kind support.

Event Description

On September 17, 2016, a Lecture on "Awareness about Artificial Intelligence" was organized by Department of Computer Engineering and Applications, Institute of Engineering & Technology. Faculty and students from all department of University attended in this lecture programme. Purpose of this lecture was to bring academicians and students on a single platform to get knowledge about artificial intelligence. The event plans to artificial intelligence is a theory and development of computer systems that can perform tasks that normally require human intelligence. Speech recognition, decision-making, visual perception for example is features of human intelligence that artificial intelligence may possess.

Mr. Love Mittal said that, Artificial intelligence (AI) technologies have become globally recognized as indispensable tools for improving organizational efficiency and productivity. Suffice therefore to say that AI technologies have strongly influenced the world of work in the 21st century. In the library setting, the adoption of AI can improve library services and provides access to accurate information that can drive growth and development in this information age. Artificial intelligence technologies are now being used in libraries to achieve the organic integration of readers and libraries. With this, readers interact on the same platform, track and acquire the personalized needs and information of users so that users can access accurate, all rounds, and humanized services, at a reduced cost to rationally utilize library resources.

He also spoke on the development of AI technologies is currently becoming commercialized. AI development platforms are now available from major software providers such as Google, Amazon, and Microsoft as well as hundreds of other niche and generalized companies, including companies focused solely on the transportation management market. Each of the major technology providers continue to improve the capabilities of their suite of software modules for AI to make the development of applications easier and more accessible to users without deep and extensive expertise in machine learning.

He also explained the various types of AI technologies could be used to help infrastructure owner-operators (IOO) for transportation systems management and operations (TSMO). For example, neural networks may help agencies improve incident detection time and identify anomalous activity, such as pedestrians or debris on a freeway; fuzzy logic may simplify the configuration of ramp metering systems; natural language question-and-answering systems may expand the abilities of TSMO staff to quickly obtain information from databases of facts and figures; and unmanned aerial systems (UAS), both on the ground and in the air, will likely augment human workers in a variety of ways. The selection of AI technologies is dependent on the particular problem at hand. Procurement of AI applications is currently a complex undertaking, which may range from purchasing a software package from a vendor to developing in-house applications using cooperative University resources for research and development.

Infantry Kumaon Regiment in 1977. He completed master's degree in Defence Studies (M.Sc. in Defence Studies) from Chennai University in 1990. In 2002, he did masters in Management Sciences from Osmania University.

Event Description

Department of Journalism and Mass Communication organized a guest lecture on “Gandhi as a selfless leader” on 12.10.2016 at Shipra Hall, Mangalayatan University, Aligarh. The keynote speaker of the event was Brigadier Syed Ahmad Ali, Pro-Vice-Chancellor, Aligarh Muslim University. The main objective of the guest lecture was to know about Rashtrapita Mahatma Gandhi and his philosophy. Also aimed to understand Gandhi's vision for rural development and also focused to motivate students to do social work selflessly for the betterment and development of society.

Benefits:

- Brief introduction of Rashtrapita Mahatma Gandhi and his philosophy was discussed in the guest lecture
- Students were motivated to do social work selflessly for the betterment and development of the nation and its people.
- Students learned Gandhi's vision on India's rural development
- Promoted initiatives to create awareness on the life and messages of Mahatma Gandhi through guest lecture and motivated students to adopt Gandhi's thought in their lives.

At the starting of the event, Commander Manjeet Singh (Retd.) introduced Brigadier Syed Ahmad Ali and afterward Syed Ahmad Ali explained the background of Shri Mahatma Gandhi in detail to all the participants. He said that Gandhi ji is one of the greatest leader having outstanding leadership qualities all across the whole world which make him as a great reformer and servant for public. He highlighted that Mahatma Gandhi is perhaps the most widely recognized figure of the Indian Nationalist Movement for his role in leading non-violent civil uprisings. He first employed the non-violent approach in South Africa where he was serving as an expatriate lawyer. Syed Ahmad Ali talk about the different national movements lead by Gandhi Ji like Satyagrah movement, Khilafat Movement, The Non-Cooperation Movement etc. One of his major achievements is in the year 1918 were the Champaran and Kheda agitations which are also called a movement against British landlords while Khilafat Movement is all about the worldwide protest against the status of Caliph by Muslims. The first of the Gandhi-led movements was the Non-Cooperation Movement lasting from September 1920 until February 1922.

The abrupt ending of the Non-Cooperation Movement did nothing to stop the quest for independence. On March 12, 1930, protesters took part in the Dandi March, a campaign designed to resist taxes and protest the British monopoly on salt. Gandhi began the 24-day, 240-mile march with 79 followers and ended with thousands. The Quit India Movement began on August 8, 1942, during World War II. The India Congress Committee, under the urging of Gandhi, called for a mass British withdrawal and Gandhi made a “Do or Die” speech.

Prof. G.S Agrawal, Kernel Dr. Nagraj Mantha, Prof. Abhay Kumar, Commander Manoj Kumar, Dr. Saad , Mr. Zakir Mohammad with all faculties and students of the mangalayatan university were present in the event.

Event: Yoga Camp-The Indian Yoga Traditions

Category of the event: Life skill

Key note speaker/Resource person: Mr. Naveen Kumar, Sports Teacher

About the Event:

Date: - 05-02-2017

Time: 09:00AM-10:00AM

Number Of Attendees/Participants: - 31

Event Description:

This event was organised to deliver an impactful lecture on 'The tradition of Indian Yoga' by the distinguished expert. The aims and objectives of the event were:

Maintaining and promoting the different Indian Yoga Traditions. The ultimate aim of Yoga is to experience the Truth, by realizing the true nature of our 'Self' and the Universe. Then one can become free from the chain of cause and effect (Karma) which brings us to earthly life again and again. In that highest state of yogic realization, one can regain one's real nature – Eternal Existence, Supreme Wisdom, Absolute Bliss (Sat-Chit-Ananda). According to Yoga, the 'self' (soul) is timeless, unchanging and free of sorrows. Yoga is therefore a spiritual quest. However, along the path of yoga, the yogi also gains health, happiness, tranquillity and wisdom, which are indicators of progress and an encouragement to continue the practice.

Outcome of the event:

The event received a positive feedback from the participants. Since latest research supports the view that college/ university students experience stress owing to perform in exams and excel in life, yoga has exceptional benefits for them. It reduces their stress, promotes sleep and promotes brain health.

The second session commenced from 10:30am. The like-minded people gathered in large numbers. There were a total of 57 students and faculty members who registered for the event. A total of 7 yoga poses and a series of Ashtanga Yoga were performed by the resource person. The 7 yoga poses included the plank pose, cobra pose, peacock pose, corpse pose, the child pose, mountain pose and the bow pose. Some of the participants performed with perfection. However, some of the participants needed guidance and support in performing relatively difficult poses. The student volunteers from different departments of the university were readily available in case anyone needed assistance. The lecture delivered by the resource person, Mr. Sanjeev Kethwas, was also a key feature of this event. Both the lecture and the yoga poses were organized for students and faculty members.

Attendees Feedback

The students and the faculty members shared their valuable feedback regarding the event. The closing of the event was an interactive sessions where students discussed about their queries. This event gave an opportunity to all the participants to provide their valuable suggestions for future events. The objective of the event was achieved and the session ended with an inspirational note presented by the resource person where he asserted that yoga should be made into a routine activity for long term benefits. Ms. Deepshikha Saxena sincerely thanked everyone who was indirectly or directly associated with this event.

Dr. Vijay K. Jain passed his B. E. (Mechanical) from Vikram University Ujjain in 1970, and M. E. (Production) from University of Roorkee in the year 1973. He did his Ph.D. from University of Roorkee in Mechanical Engineering in the year 1980. He has more than 39 years of teaching and research experience. He has served as a Visiting Professor at the University of California at Berkeley (USA) and University of Nebraska at Lincoln (USA). Presently he is a Professor at Indian Institute of Technology Kanpur (India). He has also served as a faculty at other Indian institutions, namely, M. R. Engineering College Jaipur, B. I. T. S. Pilani, and M. N. R. Engineering College Allahabad.

Event Description

A seminar on “Crises Never Stop to Do Well” was organized on 16.03.2017 at Shipra Hall, Mangalayatan University, Aligarh, The main objective of the seminar on “Crises Never Stop to Do Well” was to motivate students towards positivity. The seminar also aimed to inculcate the formula of success among students. The speaker of the seminar “Crises Never Stop to Do Well” was Professor V.K. Jain, IIT, Kanpur. The Registrar Prof. Satish Chandra Jain, Dr. G.S. Agrawal (COE), and Professor Jayanti Lal Jain, (Dean, Faculty of Humanities) also shared the dais.

In this event Prof. Vijay K Jain told that the situation is changing by the day- even by the hour. The best leaders quickly process available information, rapidly determine what matters most, and make decisions with conviction. During a crisis, cognitive overload looms; information is incomplete, interests and priorities may clash, and emotions and anxieties run high. Leaders must break through the inertia to keep the organization trained on business continuity today while increasing the odds of mid- to long-term success by focusing on the few things that matter most. A simple, scalable framework for rapid decision-making is critical. Prof. Jain talked about the investment in research area among different countries. He said that out of the total investment made in this area 95 percent portion has been provided to Japan and rest 5 percent was given to other country that’s why Japan is one of the leading nations in terms of research.

Lt. General Ajay Kumar Singh is the former Lieutenant Governor of Andaman and Nicobar Islands. He is an alumnus of Sainik School Rewa and National Defense Academy. He is a former Commander in Chief of Southern Command of Indian Army. Singh was named 11th Lieutenant Governor of Andaman and Nicobar Islands in July 2013 and took office on 8 July 2013. He was given additional responsibility of the administration of Puducherry from July 2014 to May 2016. He is known for his contributions towards Andaman Society by Starting Andaman's first medical College, ANIIMS and second degree college of South Andaman, ANCOL. Singh left the Andaman and Nicobar Islands after handing over charges on 19 August 2016.

Event Description

On April 6, 2017, a national talk in National Lecture Series on “LeaderShip ” was organized by Institute of Business Management and Department of Commerce. The subject of which was "Leadership". Faculty and students from all department of University participated in the national series lecture. Talk was organized on motivation of Hon'ble Vice Chancellor Brigadier PS Siwach to bring academicians, experts and students on a single platform to get clear cut understanding of role of leadership in individual, organizational and country success.

Lt. General Ajay Kumar Singh said that strong political leadership is necessary for economic development. One look at the Third World suggests that strong political leadership may be good or bad for economic development. Almost everything depends on what sort of political leadership and what sort of economic development. It distinguishes three functions of leadership—authority, inspiration and management. It then examines the relevance of political leadership in these three roles to the ends (objectives) and means (strategies) of economic development. It concludes that much depends on the circumstances of different countries, and that this applies not only to the desirability but also to the limitations of strong political leadership. In particular, except in the early years of mass mobilization and fervor following a revolution, leadership which takes the form of central planning and detailed bureaucratic regulation of the economy may hold back rather than promote economic development. He was of view that for life success five characteristics are essential they are character, courage, skill, dedication and empathy. The event was made even more fun and interesting when the audience was also allowed to give answer. The entire programme was coordinated with the support of the Prof. Abhay Kumar (Head- IBM).

व्यक्तित्व में कुशल प्रबंधन का समावेश करें

अलीगढ़ | कार्यालय संवाददाता

युवा अपने व्यक्तित्व में सुयोग्य नेतृत्व एवं कुशल प्रबंधन के गुणों का समावेश करें। मैं कर सकता हूँ और मैं यह कार्य कर के रहूँगा। यह मूलमंत्र युवाओं का होना चाहिए। यह बात मंगलायतन विवि में शुक्रवार को हुई राष्ट्रीय व्याख्यान माला में अंडमान-निकोबार और पांडिचेरी के पूर्व उप राज्यपाल लेफ्टिनेंट जनरल एके सिंह ने कही।

उन्होंने कहा कि जीवन में सफलता के लिए पांच गुण आवश्यक हैं। पहला चरित्र, दूसरा साहस, तीसरा कुशलता,

चौथा निष्ठा और पांचवां सहदयता। जनरल एके सिंह ने नेतृत्व और चरित्र की व्याख्या करते हुए इनकी बारीकियों को समझाया। भारतीय सेना के मनोबल की प्रशंसा करते हुए जनरल सिंह ने कहा कि सैनिक के लिए सर्वोपरि होता है देश। उसके बाद देश के लोग। अन्त में वह स्वयं या उसका परिवार। कुलपति ब्रिगेडियर प्रदीप सिवाच ने भारतीय सेना में बिताने दिनों की याद ताजा की। संचालन छात्रा खुशी जिन्दल ने किया। इंस्टीट्यूट ऑफ बिजनेस मैनेजमेंट के निदेशक प्रो. अभय कुमार, प्रो. सिवाच आदि मौजूद थे।

Event:Yoga session- Sheershasana

Category of the event: Life skill

Key note speaker/Resource person:Mr.Naveen Kumar, Sports Teacher

About the Event:

Date: - 04-05-2017

Time: 09:00AM-10:00AM

Number of Attendees/Participants: - 24

Event Description:

The session began with the introduction to the asana. The Headstand which is called Shirshasana in yoga is one of the best ways to see the world upside down because here what you get in return is health. Standing on your head, holding your position, keeping your head and body aligned is not an easy yoga asana to do, but if you succeed in this, you are gifting your body with strength. Advantages of Shirshasana are not just limited to body strength, this also helps to calm your mind and improve blood circulation as well. Headstand or sirsasana is rightfully called the king of asanas! This pose makes you marvel at a person's flexibility and balance. After all, seeing someone balancing their entire body weight on their head is quite fascinating. But it isn't as easy to do, and you cannot master this pose overnight. But once you do and practice it regularly, this pose can benefit your health in so many ways.

Outcome of the event:

Headstands can stimulate and provide refreshed blood to the pituitary and hypothalamus glands. These glands are vital to our wellbeing, and are considered the master glands that regulate all other glands in the body (thyroid, pineal, and adrenals). A headstand is a type of inversion method, which studies have shown can help reduce back pain and even reduce the need for surgery in patients with lumbar disease.

Event : Yoga Session- SeetliPranayam

Category of the event: Life skill

Key note speaker/Resource person:-Mr. Naveen Kumar, Sports Teacher

About the Event

Date: - 15-06-2017

Time: 09:00AM-10:00AM

Number of Attendees/Participants: - 17

Event Description: -

This session was organised to introduce the Seetli Pranayam and discuss the benefits of this yoga activity. The resource person expressed that Sitali pranayama is a yogic breathing exercise that is designed to both calm the mind and cool the body. The term comes from the Sanskrit, sitali, meaning "cooling" or "soothing"; prana, meaning "life force"; and ayama, meaning "extension." To practice sitali pranayama, the tongue is rolled and then the breath is drawn in through the tongue as if through a straw. This simple yet effective asana was demonstrated and the students followed the instruction.

Outcome of the event:-

There are several benefits of engaging in the activity. The students will be able to regulate the body temperature and still the mind after asana practice. It is particularly useful in hot weather. Sitali pranayama is also recommended by practitioners of the traditional Indian medicine of Ayurveda as a treatment for a pitta dosha imbalance. The pitta dosha is the body bio-element that controls metabolism, energy production and digestion. Because of its cooling effect, sitali pranayama is believed to benefit the nervous system and endocrine glands.

INTERNATIONAL YOGA DAY

21st JUNE, 2017

Coordinator – Dr. A.K.S. Rajput, Program Coordinator, NSS, Mangalayatan University

About the Event: Practiced in India since the 5th century, Yoga has been beneficial in keeping the body and mind in sound health. A holistic approach, Yoga targets all the different systems of the body and mind. It is said that the asanas make the body strong and flexible, as health improves; the mind too is renewed with confidence. The practice of Pranayama regulates the purification of the internal system and the organs, acting as a superior and able supplement to asanas. The energy that is generated in the body through these physical practices is then channelled into meditation or Dhyana for stability, peace and calm. In consonance with this, International Yoga Day was celebrated on 21st June, 2017 when Yoga session was organized for students and teachers where workshop and training session in yoga kriyas and asanas was completed.

The session was presided by Hon'ble Vice Chancellor, Brig. P.S. Siwach. He reiterated that to maintain good health and fitness level regular exercising is essential. The session began with warm up exercises followed by Yoga Session. Different asanas were practiced by faculty members and students with great zeal and enthusiasm like Padmasana, Tadasana, Bhujangasana. Meditation session was organized towards the end of session. The session ended with vote of thanks given by Dr. A.K.S. Rajput, Coordinator of the event.
