FACULTY OF SCIENCES

INSTITUTE OF APPLIED SCIENCES

Applied science is a discipline that is used to apply existing scientific knowledge to develop more practical applications, for example: technology or inventions. In natural science, basic science (or pure science) is used to develop information to explain phenomena in the natural world. This information is then put to use for practical applications through applied science. Applied science is generally engineering, which develops technology, although there might be dialogue between basic science and applied science (research and development).

To succeed in the study of the various branches of engineering, the students should begin with a firm basis in mathematics and the natural sciences. Whether applied to a particular branch of engineering or not, the proficiency in mathematics and the natural sciences is a necessary quality for any educated engineer. So, in the formation of a program of study for any engineering student it is important to give a strong foundation to Mathematics and Basic Sciences that form the fundamental building blocks of all engineering activities. A solid understanding of physics is essential to any engineering student for describing all physical phenomena. Knowledge in chemistry is also essential in understanding the atomic, molecular and chemical properties of materials. The students are expected to acquire the skills and awareness that enable them to promote a significant social change for the better and to improve the living standards of communities. So the Institute supports the engineering departments by offering courses in the Basic Sciences. The Institute also offers specialized courses in Physics, Chemistry and Mathematics in the undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral levels.

A variety of sumptuous multi-cuisine dinner items are served. You will find several groups of students and staff engaged in deep conversation, enjoying a tasty, affordable meal under the clear night sky.

In addition, the campus has a specialized snack bar at the Sumangalam hostel, open until after midnight for late snacks. There is also a juice and milk-shake center for the health conscious students right next to the engineering academic blocks.

SPORTS FACILITIES

MU's sprawling 70 acre campus is striking for one feature above all else- its abundance of sports facilities. At any time during the day, you are likely to stumble upon a basketball game, a cricket match or a soccer rumble, all at the same time.

At night, it is the turn of parallel volleyball matches under lights, with several hostel residents cheering lustily from the perches of their rooms.

The Activity Calendar is packed with several Inter-Institute sports tournaments, as well as tournaments between hostel sections and student batches.

Both the girls' and the boys' gym in the hostel are equipped with state-of-the-art exercise equipment. The facility is available for day scholars too.

DISCIPLINE

MU has a zero tolerance policy towards ragging in any form on campus. For new entrants, sufficient security is provided on the buses to prevent ragging. On campus, all security officials as well as university officials are on constant vigilance to avoid ragging. MU actively counsels all its students against the evils of ragging.

All students are expected to behave courteously with colleagues, faculty and campus visitors. Any breach of this discipline invites a variety of penalties, including expulsion in extreme cases. Acts of violence, verbal or physical, are not permissible, and are dealt with strictly. Special watch is kept to prevent sexual harassment.

A full-fledged internal security team, a team of wardens and a professional security agency, all reporting to the Proctor, work in tandem to ensure a safe and wholesome life on campus. Contacts of key personnel are provided to all students and their parents/guardians.
